

Microsoft Dev Box Fast Start

Accelerate your migration to Microsoft Dev Box

Business challenge

Desktop virtualisation centralises resources and reduces security risks, but it's challenging to manage non-standard machine requirements for software developers when operating at scale. Individual project teams have varying software and hardware needs, making standardisation difficult. Security teams struggle to support developer access to third-party code repositories and tools, and custom on-premises Virtual Desktop Infrastructure (VDI) deployments that meet these needs are complex and costly to implement.

How we help

Microsoft Dev Box is an Azure service that gives developers self-service access to pre-configured, project-specific developer boxes. Machine Configuration-as-Code eliminates the requirement for local administrator privileges over the Dev Box, through scripted installations of all developer extensions at deployment time, both in the user and machine context. Manage dev boxes with Microsoft Intune to maximise security, compliance, and cost efficiency.

At Insight, we can help you to plan your migration to Microsoft Dev Box as well as support your IT team in change management and deployment of a Proof of Concept or Pilot. Our Infrastructure-as-Code methodologies enable your team to rapidly scale Microsoft Dev Box within your business.
